Dear Dropbox,

I have a huge experience of personal projects and a great list of skills that I used in my childhood and at my university. Now, I want to improve myself more and more with your team. I'm an undergraduate in computer science living in Italy, but doing my university in Brazil. I speak Italian and Portuguese fluently, my secondary languages are english, javascript, french, C, Dart, Python, Java, and others that I have experienced at my university or my life (like Spanish or ruby).

Most of my days are using those skills to turn my life easier. For example, creating extensions to help my dad in his work or to control every of my social network with a bot. I created my apps to control my routine, manage Arduino, or interact with Alexa at my home. I already did web scraping, containerization... I did so many things in those years creating personal projects.

I'm in love with this field of humanity: producing programs and learning. Because of the things I wrote here, I'm hopeful that I could participate on your team to facile the life of your clients and because I believe I could be a nice intern.

Sincerely,

José Emanuel Cascone Rêgo de Sousa
